Elyssa Aguirre

Marketing Strategist & PR Specialist

Currently I'm a college student studying marketing, digital marketing, and public relations. My passion for social justice and human rights has been with me since childhood – yes, I was quite an odd kid.

Upon first joining Your Service Dog Inc, I dabbled in various communications, and administrative work but eventually decided to focus on the marketing and PR side of things. I am lucky enough to be part of an organization that encourages growth, promotes inclusivity, and supports volunteers as they find their footing.

A little about me:

- I've been volunteering for over 12 years (even more if you count Girl Scouts!)
- Admitted workaholic
- Love a good road trip
- A proud California girl
- Unapologetic fan of chihuahuas – what they lack in size they make up for in spunk

In my free time I enjoy:

- Painting, drawing, visual art in general
- Writing
- Feeding a voracious appetite for vinyl records
- Reading comics

I'm usually happiest when studying (strangely) or spending time with family, specifically my two baby nephews and my two adorable pet chihuahuas, Sirius and Luneta.

Getting the opportunity to be part of something bigger than myself has been a lifelong goal for me and, working for Your Service Dog Inc, it finally feels like that's falling into place.
